SUPERVISOR COMMENTS

The first day of our work week started being busy, and it continued throughout the end of the day. Officers were kept busy for a majority of the shift by responding to calls for service. During this shift, officers made several arrests, for assault and battery, public intoxication, and an outstanding warrant. One of the arrests dealt with a subject who was extremely intoxicated as he exited one of the buses at the transit center. The officer made several attempts to have a family or friend pick up the male subject, but no one was able to respond. As a result, and due to the fact, the male insisted on walking home, he was placed under arrest for public intoxication. His level of intoxication would have posed a threat to his safety, of that of the general public.
